30 Day Dry Aged Beef

At Price & Fretwell, we implement production processes which create the best quality product for our Customers. For example, our 30 day dry ageing process ensures that our Customers receive the highest quality products every time!

Unlike our Competitors, we dry age our beef on the bone for no less than 30 days! We continually invest in our dry ageing process because it produces a significant improvement in taste compared to other methods. (Kim, Kemp & Samuelsson, 2016).

The process of dry ageing involves the control of a variety of environmental factors including air flow, bacterial growth and humidity. We utilise state of the art dry ageing equipment and specialist lighting in a purpose-built hanging fridge to optimise the process.

Over the past 30 years we have let our meat do the talking and cooked our products off against Competitors with overwhelming success. We believe that quality meat speaks for itself and we will proudly cook off our meat products against any Competitor product to showcase the difference in taste and quality which we can provide.

Belvoir Castle Estate Lamb

At Price and Fretwell we are fortunate and proud to be the exclusive suppliers of Belvoir Castle Estate Lamb and Beef which are from the Dukes herd on the Belvoir family ran estate.

The ewes are typically North Country Mule crossed with a Continental Charollais Ram and are provided a grass-based diet on traditionally low input parkland. The lambs are lambed naturally outdoors with minimal human intervention.

Each lamb is selected specifically for Price and Fretwell's requirements before being transported to local Lincolnshire Meat Co. (Grantham), ensuring that the lambs are in transit for a minimum period of time. We then hang the Belvoir Castle Estate Lamb in a dry ageing fridge for 24 hours (where the humidity, temperature and air flow are controlled) before the lamb is hand-picked by our team of skilled butchers to meet the requirements of each individual customer.
